OBON

1, There are people wearing traditional Japanese clothing, Yukata.

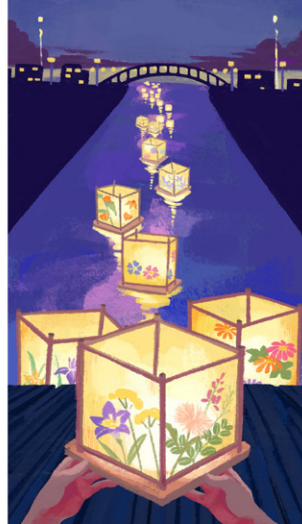

The hems of the Yukata sways just a little.

2, People move to both sides and the front open up.

The floating lanterns are moving just a little. The flame of the lantern flickers.

3, We can see hands holding a lantern and the river. The lanterns are flowing through.

Fireworks begin to rise. The hand approaches the river and floats the lantern into the river.

4, The hands float the lantern into the river and disappears from the screen. Fireworks and the "OBON" will appear.

A fruit called Hozuki grows from the left side, and the words "Obon" appear.

Born in Tokyo and currently based in Tokyo, Japan. Graduated from the School of Humanities, Waseda University, with a major in Creative Writing.

After working for a travel agency and a law firm, I began my career as a freelance illustrator.

Specialties

● Children

I enjoy spending time with children and have many years of experience interacting with them through activities such as fishing, nature observation, and outdoor play. Having also worked as a tutor during my university years, I am particularly skilled at portraying children's lively expressions, gestures, and emotions.

● Plants & Nature

I am passionate about gardening and growing plants. My love of nature inspires many of my illustrations, especially scenes featuring plants, gardens, and seasonal landscapes.

● Picture Books & Storytelling

I love books and also create original stories. I am available for picture book projects, character development, and narrative illustration.

● Retro Japanese Atmosphere

I specialize in nostalgic illustrations inspired by everyday life in Japan from the 1970s to the early 1990s, blending warmth, familiarity, and a touch of fantasy.
